This is the recommended way to activate Prepar3D. This is the fastest activation option and will allow you to deactivate/reactivate your license.

When activating a Prepar3D license, you must select "Generate new license" and enter the serial number you have with you. This requires a bit of extra work, but it is the fastest and most efficient license activation. If you do not have your serial number with you, you should contact your dealer and ask them to verify your license serial number. If the serial number is correct, then the dealer will confirm it and you can activate the license. The serial number contains the following elements:
